Eagles Cool Wings

Australian water chiller manufacturer Matsu Chilling Systems has released a range of water chillers specifically for cold water therapy spas.

“We were approached by a company supplying spa equipment to the West Coast Eagles football team – and as we had been manufacturing chillers like this for some time it seemed logical to customise a little so we could provide a purpose built water chiller for healthcare” said General Manager Daniel Rollston.

“The chillers can be set down to as low as 6°C and can be sized depending on the number of people in the spa. All the installer needs to do is connect water, connect power, and go. The chiller comes with its own in-built pump and stainless steel pressure tank, and the set-point can be easily changed by a digital thermostat” said Mr Rollston.

Matsu Chilling Systems manufacture water chillers for all types of healthcare applications, from autoclave cooling, to oncology treatment machinery cooling, air-con cooling, and now remedial spa cooling.

Matsu Chilling Systems also commission and service 0.5kW to 1200kW water chillers Australia wide.
